Presidents Message ...

Deborah Roberts
President 2008-2009

Fellow Rotarians and Friends,

What a terrific presentation we had from Steven Solomon, joining us all the way from RI Headquarters in Evanston, IL. I expect we will be seeing more of Steven in the future as he guides us through the goals of RI and the Future Vision Plan:

From the RI website, the Future Vision Plan is outlined: “...In anticipation of The Rotary Foundation’s 100-year anniversary in 2017, the Trustees set out in 2005 to develop a 10-year vision with a three-year plan to move the Foundation toward its second century of service. This vision and plan reflect input from a wide variety of stakeholders through interviews, surveys, focus groups, and input sessions and include a comprehensive approach for setting goals and a roadmap for successful execution...” You can read more about the specific objectives of The Future Vision Plan on the RI website at www.rotary.org.

For several years now our Club has had a similar focus, each year taking new steps in the direction of our future. Each and every one of you is a successful business person. You’re Rotarians because you want to leave a legacy of Service Above Self. Do you have any ideas that could help us with future planning? If so, please submit them to any of your board members, or better yet, join us for our next board meeting on Tuesday, December 16th, 2008. We will meet at the Hishmeh Enterprises corporate offices, located at 1811 Knoll Drive here in Ventura. Our meeting will begin promptly at 7:00 AM and end promptly by 8:30 AM.

We’ll be together again on December 4th for our annual Poinsettia Delivery Day. Remember we need your help! If you are unable to deliver, please send someone to help in your place. Judy Hoag has once again done an amazing job of organizing our annual fundraiser. If you haven’t placed an order yet, please do so today and minimize those last minute orders!

From our family to yours, we hope you have a fantastic Thanksgiving!

“As we express our gratitude, we must never forget that the highest appreciation is not to utter words, but to live by them.”
~John Fitzgerald Kennedy

Ambassadorial Scholarship. This talk is really quite person for him. His introduction to Rotary came from the Rotary Club of Buffalo Grove, IL, which sponsored a Boy Scout Troop in which he participated. He eventually became an Ambassadorial Scholar, attending school in South Africa. He had learned some Zulu prior to his trip, and it became useful in a couple of opportune times to meet some heads of state and other dignitaries. Once when he was back in Illinois and was within earshot of Nelson Mandella, he spoke up in Zulu, Mr. Mandella heard it and they had a conversation and he got his picture taken with him. (Nelson Mandella will speak at the Rotary World Peace Symposium in 2009.)

Steve also discussed his work with Dr. Jane Goodall, how he met her and later worked with her Roots and Shoots educational program. (Dr. Goodall will be speaking at the 2009 RI Convention in Birmingham, England.) Without a doubt, Steve had a very significant experience as an Ambassadorial Scholar.

He also discussed the major programs of the Foundation, including:

- Polio Plus
- Humanitarian Grants programs, including 3-H grants (Health, Hunger and Humanity) and Matching Grants
- Educational programs, including Group Study Exchange and Ambassadorial Scholarships.

We covered a lot of information. Unfortunately this recap is only a brief summary of all the details of the programs.

Thank you, Steve, for your inspiring presentation about The Rotary Foundation.

Attendance doubles at 2008 Rotary-UN Day Youth Program

By Jennifer Lee Atkin

Rotary International News -- 1 December 2008

Thomas Betjeman, a 1998 Rotary Youth Exchange student, gained a new focus for his life during his year living with host families in Chile.

Betjeman shared his experiences, which eventually led to his joining the Peace Corps and applying to medical school, with more than 650 youth who attended the Youth Program during Rotary International Day at the United Nations in New York City on 8 November.

Organized by Helen B. Reisler, alternate RI representative to the UN and past district governor, the program had twice the attendance of last year's event, and featured more than 20 speakers, mostly youth from Interact, Rotaract, RYLA, and Rotary Youth Exchange. Speakers encouraged the audience to get involved with Rotary youth programs.

Betjeman said after his year as an exchange student, he returned to the United States with a commitment to helping people in developing countries. He joined the Peace Corps after college and later worked on a project to eliminate Guinea worm disease in Mali. He is applying to medical school and intends to work in the field of international health.

"This is your chance to find yourself," Betjeman said of Rotary Youth Exchange opportunities.

Jacqueline Law, president of the Rotaract Club of Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, New York, USA, spoke about the Vassar Uganda Project, which seeks to bring sustainable health care to Uganda's most vulnerable populations. The premed student volunteers traveled to Uganda twice this year to bring medical supplies and services to people in need.

"When I was [volunteering] in Kaberamaido [Uganda], a man told me that perhaps the greatest thing we had given the people was hope," Law said. "Hope, he said, was the most powerful medicine."

Taking it up a notch

Omar Herrera spoke about his experiences with both Interact and RYLA. The Rotaractor and freshman at Lynn University in Boca Raton, Florida, was also a member of the Interact Club of Ossining, New York, for four years.

Herrera described a RYLA Leadership Through Adventure program, which uses activities such as hiking, rock climbing, and caving to develop leadership skills, build teamwork, and teach risk-taking.

"Instead of regular youth leadership conferences, where the participants sit and talk, we took it up a notch," Herrera said.

The youth program also featured headliners Tom Henderson, founder and CEO of ShelterBox, and Drew Persons from The Sold Project, which seeks to raise awareness about and eliminate child trafficking.

Many of the youth found the program inspiring and motivating.

"I learned that we do have to get involved, more than we already are," said Evan Merrill, 13, a high school freshman and Interactor from Naugatuck, Connecticut, USA. His sister, Anna, 16, added that she was particularly impressed with ShelterBox.

At the conclusion of the program, RI President Dong Kurn Lee told the youth: "You know now how much there is to be done. Now is the time to make service a part of your life -- to begin to put Service Above Self."
